B. Wharton presents the Clingstone Cannon to legendary yacht designer Olin Stephens during last year's awards ceremony.

For the 22nd consecutive year, the Museum of Yachting's Classic Yacht Regatta will celebrate the design, craftsmanship and maintenance of some of the greatest vessels ever to float. The event, spread over three days during Labor Day weekend, once again will include a day of racing for eight classes, a parade around Newport Harbor as well as an opening reception Friday night, a Saturday breakfast and that evening, after a day of racing, a reception, awards dinner and dancing. Restoration Judging will take place Sunday morning before the mid-day parade to the music of John Moitosa's Dixieland Band. Awards for the parade, which is co-sponsored by the Maritime Preservation Alliance of Newport, will be made at the reception following the parade. The annual Nautical Bazaar and the Vintage Motor Car Festival, now in its third year, also will be held Sunday on the museum grounds.

Racing again this year will be a fleet of Shields class boats. Catboats also have been invited to enter the race and the regatta will be open to newer boats built to the style and standards of the older yachts. Last year's big winner, Jed Pearsall and his New York 30 Amorita, will be on hand to defend the four trophies they captured. In addition to her award for a first place finish in Class B, which brought Amorita the Sappho Trophy for the best corrected time in the fleet, she won awards for being the first Herreshoff yacht to finish and the first gaff-rigged boat to finish. The Classic Yacht Regatta is among the events in the Classic Racing Series sponsored by Woodenboat magazine.

The Classic Yacht Regatta and the Museum of Yachting benefit from the assistance of several corporate sponsors whose help is essential to the continued success of the weekend's events. They include Vermont's Otter Creek Brewing, Dry Creek Vineyard of California, Gosling's Black Seal Rum of Bermuda, Raytheon and its web site boaters.com and the advertisers in Spinnaker magazine. They deserve the thanks of all participants. Thanks also are due to the Rhode Island State Yachting Committee for its continued support.
